Transforming Schools Into Learning Communities

Dear Parent/Guardian,

As the winter season envelops us in its serene charm and festive spirit, all of us are eagerly anticipating the joys that the upcoming vacations hold. Winter vacations are a time for families to bond and create lasting memories. As educators, we understand the value of breaks and the rejuvenation they offer to our students. However, amidst the festivities and relaxation, it is essential to recognise the unique opportunities this season offers for academic enrichment and growth.

The winter vacation homework has been thoughtfully designed to complement the joys of the season while ensuring that students remain connected to their academic journey. The homework assignments are tailored to reinforce the concepts learned during the academic term, ensuring that students maintain their academic momentum and are well-prepared for the challenges of the upcoming term.

As we embrace the delights of winter vacations, I urge you to support your child in completing the winter vacation homework. Together, we can ensure that our students enjoy a harmonious balance of relaxation, exploration, and academic growth.

Wishing you and your family joyous winter vacations filled with love, laughter, and memorable moments.

Regards,

Director Teaching & Learning

Introduction

Winter homework is a great way for teachers to help learners keep learning all through the vacations. The goal of the winter home work is to help learners continue with minimal regression of basic skills. Here, you will find the ideas such as letter recognition, shape and colours, or games to play with parents.

Directions for Parents:

Winter time can be a great time for young children to learn with parents in the warmth of their homes and your part is to make your child's learning experiences pleasant. You can try some of the following ideas, and come up with some of your own.

Storytelling and Reading Activities for Winter

Encourage your child's love for stories and imagination during the winter holidays with fun and engaging storytelling activities. Cozy up together and read winter-themed books like The Snowy Day by Ezra Jack Keats or Over and Under the Snow by Kate Messner etc. Make it more interactive by asking questions about the characters, settings, and what might happen next.

Take it a step further by creating your own DIY storybook. Use simple materials like paper, crayons, and markers to draw pictures and craft a holiday-themed story together. Let your child take the lead in deciding the plot and characters, fostering creativity and language skills. These activities not only create special bonding moments but also build foundational literacy skills in a fun and meaningful way.

Parent - Child Activities:

This is a list of parent/child activities that is intended to enhance the learning. Following these suggestions will make your vacations a more enjoyable educational experience.

- Cook dinner together. Show your child how to measure 1 cup, 1/2 cup, and 1/4 cup.
- Practice writing words with sidewalk chalk.
- Plant a tree/plant together. Talk about what do plants need to grow. (sun, water, etc.)
- Watch a thunderstorm/video. Be excited! Talk to your child about dark clouds, thunder, and lightening.
- Help/encourage your child write a letter to someone, then let your child purchase the stamp and mail the letter at the post office.
- Grocery day: Take a list and let your child help read the list and locate items.
- Play outdoor games. Teach your child to play jacks, hopscotch, or marbles.
- Make ABC cupcakes. Using a icing bag, let your child draw letters on them.
- Visit the pet store. Talk about animal varieties, foods, care items, and responsibilities of pet ownership.
- Housecleaning day! Let your child help. They can dust, clean windows and more. Start a chore chart.
- Go to the library for story day. Be sure to bring books home. Keep up the practice all winter!
- Get a kids' cookbook and make recipes together. Using words and pictures, let your child help read instructions.

- Discuss good nutrition habits with your child with the help of food pyramid. Start naming the food groups each time you serve them. Soon, your child will learn them.
- Keep a chart of varying summer day and night temperatures in the city that you are visiting.
- Classify days according to weather: sunny, cloudy, partly sunny, partly cloudy, and rainy. Keep records of different cities that you visit.
- Take pictures or gather postcards of places you visit. Keep a scrapbook and write short notes or descriptions of those places.
- Draw pictures of places that you visit.
- Make a list of all the things that are different in the country/city you visit.
- Record all the types of transportation you use in your travels. Draw a picture of each type and tell what you liked or didn't like about that mode of travel.
- Cut out pictures of objects from magazines that begin with the letters of the alphabet. Start at A and make a book of all the letters in the alphabet.
- Play games with objects that you see: guess what letter they begin and end with; think of words that rhyme with them; think of words that begin with the same letter.
- Count objects that you see. Play hand games: show an amount of buttons, coins, stones etc. Ask: How many did I take away?
- Sort the objects into categories: colour, texture, size and shape. See that in how many ways the child can sort the same objects.
- Classify pictures of animals: fur, feathers, and habitats are a few of the areas that a child might use. Cut the pictures and paste them in a book and keep adding when more pictures are collected.

Its Party Time

A child is like a butterfly, so free,
Fluttering brightly for all to see.
Each one is special, no two the same,
With their own spark, their own name.
Some soar high, some stay near,
Each finds their path, year by year.
With gentle guidance, love, and care,
They'll spread their wings and go anywhere.
